GOODY TWO SHOE'S BIRTH DAY,
ON THE FIRST DAY OF MAY.

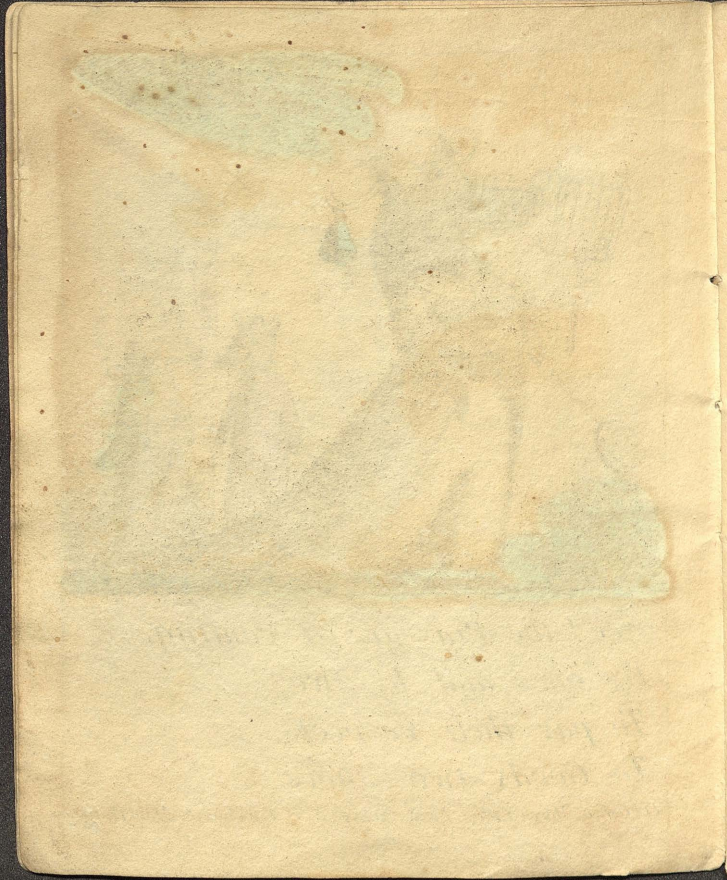

*Goody two-shoes presents,
Her love to you all;
And hopes you'll attend,
At her next Birth day Ball.*

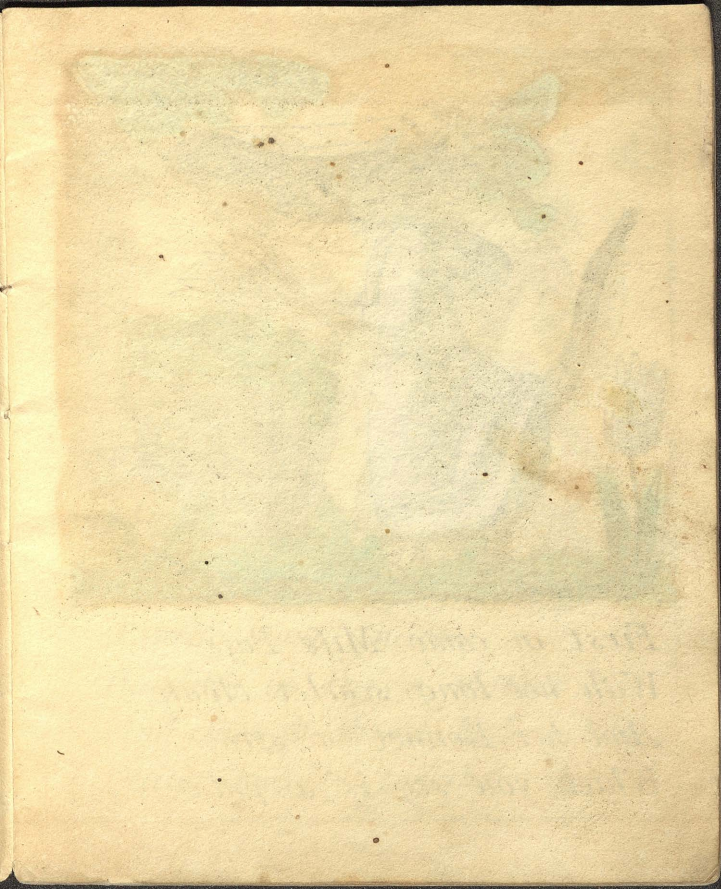

*See! the Pigs are a coming,
By one's and by two's;
To pay their respects,
To Goody two shoes.*

Published March 1809, by J. Aldis, N<sup>o</sup>. 9. Parment, Moortields.

*First in came Miss Puss,
With her long scarlet cloak;
And her Bonnet of straw,
Which you see is a poke.*

*Sancho came next,
Handing in Puss's mother;
And though they'd had words,
Quite friendly together.*

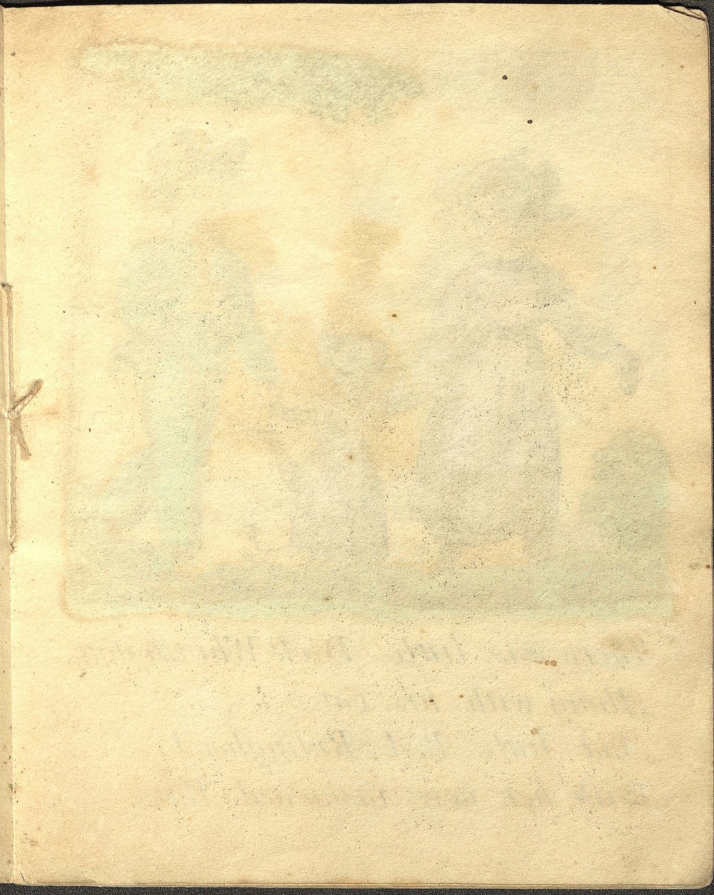

*The Monkey came in,
With his mischievous art;
Dressed just like his Brother,
The Ape Buonaparte.*

*Then Old Mother Hubbard,
Came out with a smile;
And her little Dog,
Handed her over the stile.*

*There was little Dick Whittington,
Along with his Cat ;
And little Red Ridinghood,
With her new fashioned Hat .*

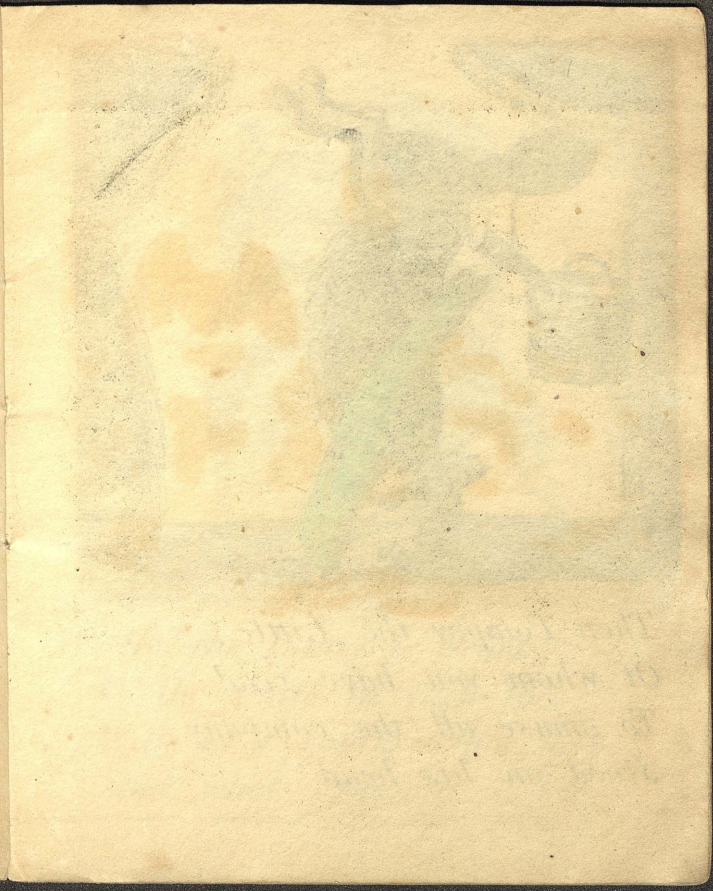

*Bring in Fruits and Cakes,,
Of every kind ;
That each of the Guests ,
May have what's to their mind.*

around the house and the house and the house and

*Then Pompey the Little,
Of whom you have read;
To amuse all the company,
Stood on his head.*

*Ah! the Dance is begun,
O! the smile in each face;
With what rapture they move,
And what exquisite grace.*

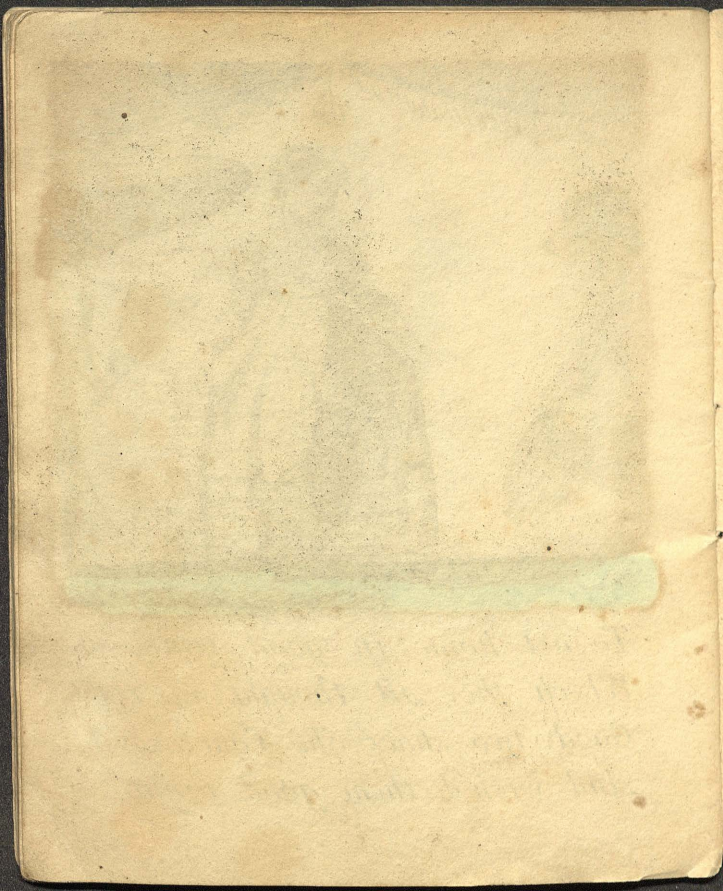

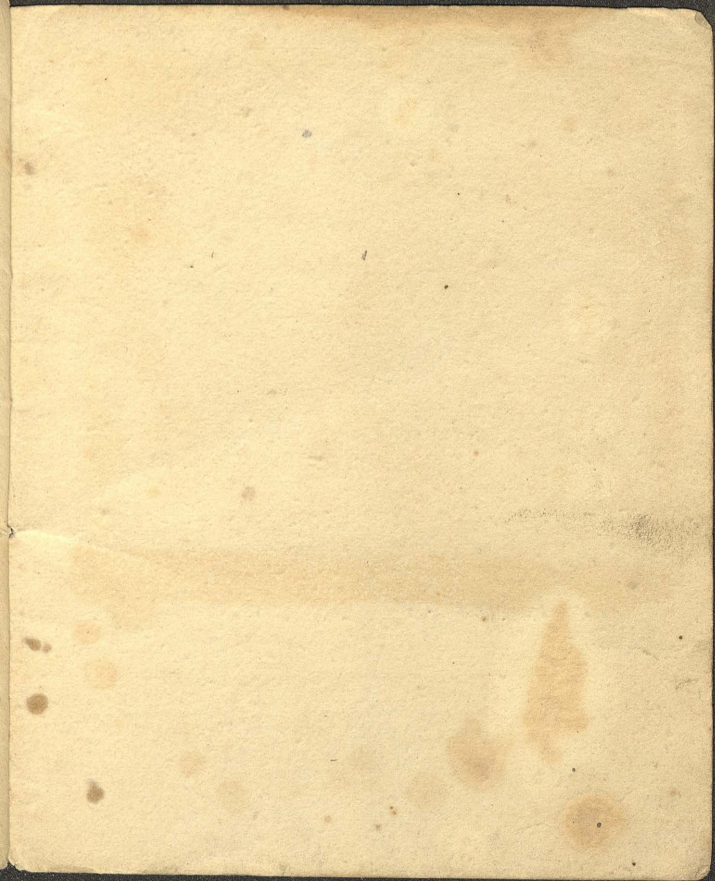

*Hark! who is that singing,
So soon after supper;
O! there was a tone,
Ah! its little Tom Tucker.*

*To get home in good time,
Which they all thought was right;
Goody two-shoes She Courtesey'd,
And wish'd them good night.*
